

IN SOCIETY YEAR OPENS BRIGHTLY

Happy Young People of Richmond Club Have Delightful Programme.

BAL MASQUE AT ART CLUB

Event of Much Social Interest
Next Thursday Night—Mid-Winter Weddings.

Hide and Seek.

Three children played at hide and seek. As they were called, they came. When Beauty passed and called to them, "Come have a game with me." So Beauty hid herself within. A little thought she knew, And in a bird-song, and a flower, That sparkled in the dew.

Three children looked with eager eyes, And each to catch her tried, But ere they reached her, Beauty swift Had slipped away to hide. "Which way is she?" they asked, and each A different pathway took. One saw her on a mountain peak, One heard her in the brook.

The years to them seemed only hours, So merry was the chase, And Beauty more enchanting grew Within her hiding place. One heard sweet sounds and followed them, His heart a-thrill with song. "Twas now a bird, and now a bell That beckoned him along.

One saw in blossom and in tree, On blue and distant hill, A wondrous face; he followed it With all an artist's will. The third went down the lane of thought, And sought the hidden there. He tried to bind with chain of words The wondrous creature fair.

Three children, weaned with their play, Came to a narrow stream. They saw the object of their chase. They heard her in a dream. "Once more I hide on yonder bank, And then will hide no more; The good, the true, I gather here On the eternal shore."

Upon the golden bank they sat, And Beauty sweetly smiled, "Let's play at keeping house," said she, "And each shall be my child!" Musician, artist, poet, dead! Their mourners little dream The happiness in Beauty's House The other side the stream.

New Year in Society.

The Richmond Club celebrated the New Year last Monday in beautiful style. The figures of the dance, the pretty frocks of the ladies present, the gift trees, from which favors were distributed, and the delightful supper given by the managers of the Woman's Exchange, rendered the affair a brilliant and memorable affair. Among the young ladies who danced were Miss Mabel Forbes, Misses Davenport, Miss English, Miss Kathleen Bruce, Miss Laura Rutherford, Miss Ross, Miss Lucy Urquhart, Miss Potts Meredith, Miss Sue Spillman, Miss Bell, of Washington, D. C.; Miss Bernard Cooke, Miss Bessie Armstrong, Miss Kate Harris, Miss Edith Grant, Miss Mabel Walker, Mrs. Otto Theodore Hess, of New York; Miss Whitlock, Miss Margaret McGuire, Miss Bessie Tompkins, Miss Sophie White, Miss Louise McAdams, Miss Nellie Gordon, Miss Martha Bovic, Miss Carrie Armstrong, Miss Charles Herbert, Miss Ruth Hubbard, Miss Courtney, Miss Claudia Palmer, Miss Page Royall, Mrs. Archibald Battle, Mrs. Jordan Leake, Miss Maude Morgan, Miss Mary Deane, Miss Louise Purcell, Miss Doyle, Miss Mary Hayes, Miss Mildred Bond and Miss Packard, of Baltimore.

The midwinter dance of the Tuesday German will be given January 24th, and will have all the attractive features which have made the Tuesday affairs such marked successes this season.

Masquerade at Art Club.

The members of the Richmond Art Club will give a students' bal masque Thursday next, January 12th, at the Art Club rooms, corner of Madison and Grace Streets, in which society is greatly interested. The costumes will cover a wide period of time in their reversion, and will incline to the grotesque, rather than to the historic and magnificent. The utmost good fellowship and informality will prevail, and as the secret of costumes is being strictly kept, guests who are onlookers have the prospect of a merry time in guessing the names of their disguised friends.

After the unmasking there will be an old-fashioned dance, in which the lancers, the Reilly and Sir Roger de Coverly will be reproduced, and figures will be called in the old-time way. The art classes and their director, Miss Tallaferro, had the pleasure last Thursday morning of a delightful visit from Mr. John William Fordick, of New York, who spent the week in Richmond as the guest of Mrs. Walter Christian. He came while the class was at work, sat down, and while the students were grouped around him, made them a talk full of helpful suggestions and of valuable encouragement.

In Honor of Miss Chambers.

The Staunton News of yesterday contained the following reference to an entertainment given by Miss Tyree, in which Richmond friends will be interested. It says:

An entertainment that reflected much credit on the hostess, was given last night, by Miss Florence Tyree, in honor of her friend and guest, Miss Louise Chambers, of Warsaw, Ky. The Russian-Japanese war was fought over, though fortunately no lives were lost. The parlors were prettily decorated in wattle style and after the guests were received by Mrs. W. R. Tyree, Miss Louise Chambers and Miss Tyree, each was given a cute little Japanese doll, which was ingeniously arranged for a score-card, a card being attached, which showed whether the recipient was to take sides with the every case each country fought against the other, at the various tables, which instead of being numbered, were named for the different battles which have recently attracted the attention of the world. The score was kept with little bullets.

The evening was thoroughly enjoyed by every one present. The only thing not in keeping with the well planned arrangements was the supper, for instead of hard tack an elegant repast was handsomely served. Among the invited guests were Mrs. and Mrs. Charles P. Stearns, Misses Kate Hutchinson, Coring, Valz, Lizzie Cochran, Emma Hoge, Mary Clegg, Mary Ranson, Bessie Baker, Helen Baxter, Annie Grasty, Effie Moore, Mattie and Evelyn Shreckhise, Annie Patrick, Mabel Little, Elizabeth Burrell, Jones, Daisy Yarbrough, Margaret Cochran, Mary Yost, Rose Harrison, Marie Brunson, Bessie Hunter, of Richmond; Carter Warren, of Harrisonburg; Janet Summerson, and Bessie Worthington; also Messrs. Mac Wheat, A. W. Blackley, W. B. Trout, W. G. Woodward, Ernest, Hoge, Ed. Payne, H. D. Onie, R. M. August, J. C. Pankake, A. E. Miller, John D. Crowle, Jr., L. W. H. Peyton, Peyton Cochran, Maurice Lara, Warren Bird, Edward Tilton, Frank M. Yost, C. M. East, R. M. Jones, W. B. and W. W. Timberlake, A. Stuart, Robinson, George A. Allen, Frank D. Webb and Arthur Valz.

Masonic Home Auxiliary.

A most important meeting of the Masonic Home Auxiliary will be held, in the Temple on Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Every member is urged to attend.

Doran—O'Sullivan.

Next Thursday, January 12th, Miss Bessie O'Sullivan and Mr. William James Doran will be married in Sacred Heart Church, by the Rev. Father J. B. O'Reilly. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Catherine O'Sullivan, of No. 1014 Park Avenue, and a sister of Mr. D. O'Sullivan. No cards have been issued.

Gismonda Social Club.

The Gismonda Social Club was delightfully entertained last Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Charles E. Booth, No. 1555 Hanover Street. Music and games were indulged in until 11 o'clock, when the guests repaired to the spacious dining-room, where supper, including the choicest delicacies of the season, was served.

The dining-room was tastefully decorated with holly and Christmas bells. Among those present were Messrs. Charles E. Booth, John C. Booth, James Davis, Wythe D. Anderson, Eugene Arnett, of Washington; Misses Josie Dalton, Beirne White, Mayme Wharton, John Ogilvie, Mamie Briggs, Annie Dolan, Elizabeth Dolan, and Jerry, Nellie McKeegan; Messrs. R. C. Booth, D. E. Doyle, James Davis, Wythe D. Anderson, Harvey C. Clarke, John Hulcher, George Mondy, D. Edwards, A. C. Pugh, Welford Kelley and Stanislaus Kellum.

Children's Colonial Ball.

Despite the inclemency of the weather the colonial ball given to the children in Belvidere Hall Friday evening, under the auspices of the Commonwealth Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, was a pronounced success, reflecting great credit on the participants, who had been beautifully trained by Mrs. James Welch for the measures of the state's minute.

The costumes worn by the juveniles were creations of loveliness, giving to the tiny tots the grace and dignity of the court of Louis XIV. period. Noticeably beautiful was the dress worn by little Miss Maud Maskey, the partner of Master Hubert Sutton. Her bright, laughing eyes danced with fun beneath her powdered wig, in which three tiny ostrich plumes gave added height to the petite figure. Her dress was a marvel of beauty, with skirt of pink satin, broadened polonaise, with Watteau plait and Medici collar, filled in with rich old lace, while a miniature nestled on her breast, completing a picture of beauty that made the wearer the admired "observed of all observers."

The minut was led by Miss Annette Thiermann and Master Edgar LaFerty, the grand march by Miss Alice Blair and Master Edmund Strudwick. Those dancing in costumes were:

Miss Annette Thiermann, in pale blue brocade and real lace berthe, with diamonds.

Mr. Edgar LaFerty, in white satin, embroidered with pearls; diamond buckles and duchess lace collar.

Miss Mary Thompson, in pale pink brocade, point lace and diamonds.

Mr. Kirk Parrish, in buff satin trousers, pale blue velvet coat, with diamond buckles.

Miss Nan Miller, in rose color brocade over dress, white satin skirt and pearl ornaments.

Mr. William Thompson, in blue velvet coat, satin trousers and diamond buckles.

Miss Margaret Phillips, in Dresden brocade over dress, white satin skirt and duchess lace collar.

Mr. Hunter McCutcheon, in pale blue satin coat trimmed in silver, white satin trousers, with diamond buckles.

Miss Eliza Leake, in white satin gown with point lace collar and diamond ornaments.

Mr. Maxwell Wadley, in blue brocade coat, white satin trousers, duchess lace collar and diamond buckles.

Miss Mildred Lafey, in a beautiful gown of white satin, embroidered in pink roses and trimmed with point lace; diamond ornaments.

Mr. Curry Thomas, in a pale blue, broad costume, with diamond buckles.

Miss Rosalie Moseley, in a pink brocade overskirt, blue satin skirt, pearl and diamond ornaments.

Mr. Hubert Sutton, in pink velvet coat, with satin trousers, with diamond buckles.

Miss Alice Morrison in a bewitching costume of white satin handpainted with pink crushed roses, bodice laced with black velvet ribbons, and white ostrich tips in hair and diamond ornaments.

Mr. Dabney Crenshaw, gold and white brocade coat, white satin trousers, diamond buckles and point lace handkerchief.

Miss Alice Blair, in yellow brocade gown, trimmed with point lace, diamond ornaments and ostrich tips in hair.

Mr. Edmund Strudwick, in green satin coat trimmed in silver, white satin trousers, with diamond buckles.

The receiving party, last evening included Mrs. E. P. Purcell, Mrs. Warner Moore, Mrs. W. H. Nelson, Mrs. A. F. Hunt, Mrs. Deane Manley, Mrs. Dallam Barksdale and Miss Morrison. The ladies will repeat their entertainment at an early date in response to many requests.

Miss Blunt Entertains.

A number of young people gathered in the home of Miss Lazel Blunt, No. 221 South 11th Street, Wednesday night, for dancing and games of various kinds were indulged in until a late hour, when the guests repaired to the dining-room, where full justice was done to the elegantly set table.

Among those present were Misses Lizzie Puckett, Liza Clarkson, Belle Nuckolls, Jessie Hendricks, Florence Garrett, Hazel Blunt, Mrs. Bruce Jennings, Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Jennings, and Messrs. Joe Perry, Harry A. Rock, Frank Wayne, Burk Perry, Bernard Royaker, Addison Royster, Mr. Nicholson, Terry, Mr. Bruce Jennings, Oscar Blunt and many others.

Miss Williams at Home.

Miss Adele Williams, at home in her studio, on Tuesdays, from 4 to 6 P. M.

Miss Lucy Coleman returns to-day from New York. Beginning to-morrow, January 9th, the Misses Coleman will be at home—No. 12 North Sixth Street—to their friends each Monday afternoon, from 5 to 7 o'clock.

At Woman's Club.

Dr. Richard Burton, literary editor of the Lathrop Publishing Company, and author of "Literary Likings," "Forces in Fiction," and other equally popular works, will give a talk to-morrow afternoon at the Woman's Club on "The Modern Novel." The interest of the subject is only equaled by the brilliant reputation of the lecturer who has been classed among the foremost of the younger American men of letters.

Bridge Whist.

Mrs. J. D. Noel has issued invitations for "Bridge" Friday afternoon, January 13th, complimentary to Mrs. Walter Sullivan Hutchinson, of Washington, and Mrs. Frank McCullough, of New York. Hutchinson will arrive in Richmond Thursday next for a visit to Mrs. Noel, at No. 311 Harrison Street.

Peay—Oliver.

Mr. James H. Blinford Peay, of this city, and Miss Julia May Oliver, of King and Queen, were quietly married January 6th in Washington, D. C., by the Rev. Dr. Vestal. The bride is a very popular both in business and socially. Miss Oliver, while not a resident of Richmond, is very well known, having spent several winters here. After a wedding journey they will be at home to their friends at No. 6 North Church Street, after January 10th.

Society at Matinee.

Verdi's lovely opera, of "Il Trovatore" turned the attention of society to the Academy of Music yesterday. A big audience filled the house, looked on from the boxes, drank in the exquisite singing and applauded Miss Brooks, Miss Ivell, Miss Schenck and Mr. Gott, who were well liked throughout the different scenes. The boxes, upper and lower, were well filled, and Miss Brooks' beautiful costumes were the subject of much admiring remark.

First toilet showed a skillful blending of satin and chiffon in different shades of blue, with iridescent bead embroidery that produced the effect of moonlight on water.

She had on next a superb gown all in white, covered with pearls and emeralds, and worn with ropes and a collar of pearls around the neck. In the prison scene she was all in black, black velvet, satin and lace, fashioned into a gown, an princess and en train, that was cut to produce an effect of shadow and height, adding much to natural grace of movement.

Miss Ellen Glasgow sat in the right hand lower box, the other occupants of which included, next Miss Glasgow, Miss Corinne Johnston and Miss Edith Welford. Miss Glasgow was gowned in her unaccustomed good taste, and was evidently greatly interested. Between acts she talked animatedly with her friends, and Hutchinson was looking remarkably well. Mrs. Tom Bolling, in gray, with picture hat; Mrs. Edward Mayo, in black, with an ermine collar and stole over her opera coat; Mrs. Ida Ellerson, in black, with touches of white, and Miss Preston Womack, were among the additional box occupants.

At Woman's Club.

A party of juveniles sat in the second right-hand box. Miss Margie Knowles, in delicate shades of gray and a gray feather box, was in the right-hand box, and others noted were Miss Helen Christian, Misses Meredith, Mrs. Hugh Taylor, Mrs. Townes, Miss Townes, Mrs. W. J. Johnston, Miss Josephine Gier, Mrs. L. Johnston, Misses Whittlock, Miss Werth, and scores of the pretty maids and matrons in the city.

The Saturday matinee offered a fine opportunity to the students from the different educational institutions, who were largely in evidence. As people poured out of the building there was put one expression of opinion, and that was of delight at the scenes and the music, just seen and heard by those who were present.

Monthly Meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Richmond Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will be held Wednesday afternoon, January 11th, in Leo Camp Hall, at 11 o'clock. Arrangements will be made at this meeting for the annual tea of the chapter and annual dues will be collected, so it is hoped that every member of the chapter will be present.

Wednesday, February 8th, will be the date of the annual chapter meeting for the election of officers.

Dr. Whitfield's Lecture.

Dr. James M. Whitfield will give a talk before the Woman's Club, Wednesday afternoon, January 11th, on "Liquid Air."

Club members are looking forward to it with great interest.

Quarles—Howard.

The forthcoming marriage of Mrs. Kate Barbour Howard, the daughter of Mr. B. F. Barbour, of the Richmond and Albemarle Railroad, and the daughter-in-law of Major B. F. Howard, to Mr. Edward Latham Quarles, the son of the Rev. Dr. H. L. Quarles, of Ashland, Va., is announced to take place Thursday, January 12th, in the home of Major B. F. Howard on East Franklin Street.

Debutante Reception.

Mrs. Postiaux Robinson will be at home Tuesday, January 10th, from 2 to 4 P. M., in honor of her debutante daughter, Miss Martha Robinson.

Two debutante receptions were given last week, one by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Saddon Bruce, to the young friends of their daughter, Miss Kathleen Bruce; the other by Mr. and Mrs. Preston Cooke to their daughter, Miss Bernard Cooke. The latter reception was followed by a card party in the evening, to which about seventy-five of the young people were invited.

Bride and Groom Honored.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Foster have sent out cards for a reception in honor of Dr. and Mrs. W. Brownley Foster, Wednesday, January 11th, to be given at No. 11 North First Street.

Dr. and Mrs. Foster, whose recent wedding was an interesting society event, have just returned from their wedding tour.

Ladies' Morning Musicals.

After an intermission of three weeks, the Ladies' Morning Musicals met Wednesday afternoon, January 4th, at the house of the president, Mrs. W. H. O. McDehes, No. 117 West Main Street. A most enjoyable and instructive afternoon was spent in memory of Franz Liszt.
